Terps Aim for Return to National Championship Form

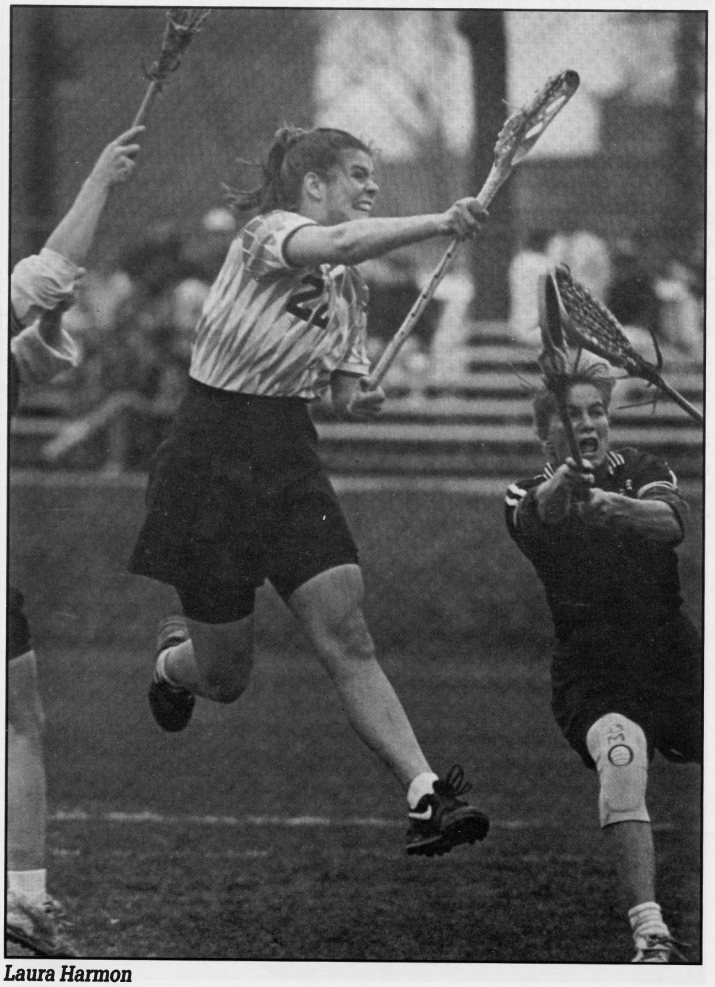
A close look at the 1994 University of Maryland women's lacrosse team reveals talent, depth and a high level of proven performance from top to bottom. Head Coach Cindy Timchal, in her fourth season at Maryland, has assembled one of the finest teams in the recent memory of the tradition laden Terp program.

The Terps welcome back four All-Americans and nine starters from last year's team that advanced to the NCAA semifinals and finished the season ranked No. 2 in the country. Combine that experience with a highly regarded recruiting class and you have the makings of one of the top teams in the nation.

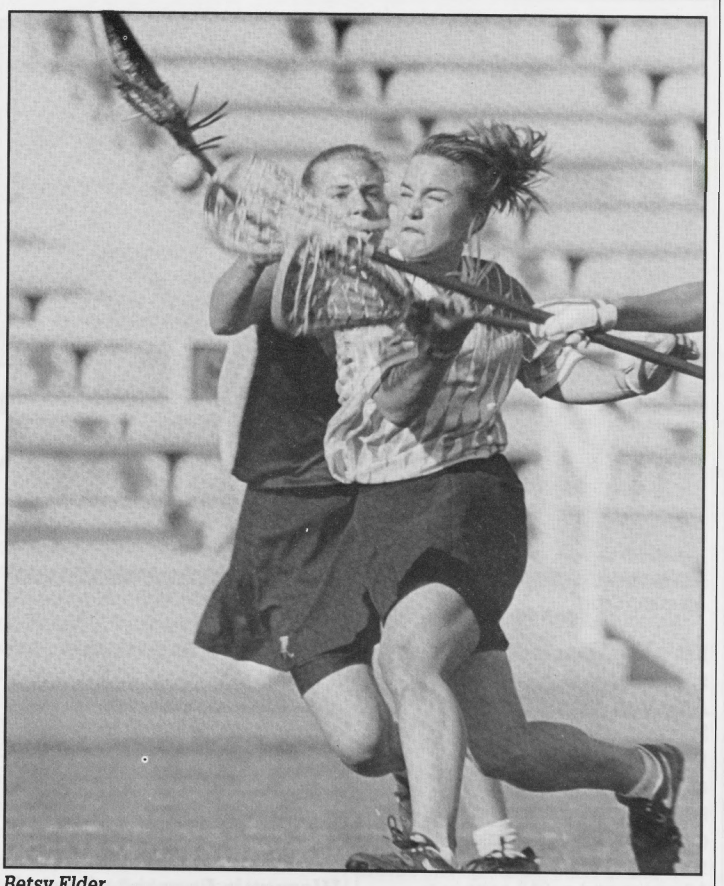
Leading the way for Maryland are returning All-Americans Betsy Elder, Laura Harmon, Kelly Amonte and Patty Parichy. Amonte, Elder and Harmon, the Terps' top three returning scorers, combined to score 131 goals last season. The scoring ability of each member of the trio should allow Maryland to be one of the top scoring teams in the nation. Parichy will be the anchor of what could be one of the nation's top defensive units.

Leading the way on offense for Maryland will be Elder, a two-time All-American. Elder scored a career high 54 goals and 69 total points in 1993. She is among the most dominant players in the sport today. In addition to her numerous All-America honors, Elder is a member of the U.S. Elite Team.

Harmon and Amonte are also among the nation's top offensive players. Harmon scored a career high 38 goals last season and possesses one of the hardest shots in the game. Harmon is also known for her incredibly accurate shots. Amonte enjoyed a spectacular freshman season as she scored 39 goals and assisted on 28 others for 67 total points.



Laura Harmon



Betsy Elder

She finished second on the team in all three categories. Her goal scoring ability is incredible and she should once again be among the nation's top scorers in 1994.

Adding to the Terp offense will be freshman center Sarah Forbes and sophomore home Karen MacCrate. Forbes, a member of the Australian National Team, is very fast and possesses a very powerful shot. MacCrate, a returning veteran from last season, scored 10 goals and assisted on 21 others during her freshman season.

The experienced Terp midfield will also be dangerous. Senior Maureen Scott is the leader of the unit and is joined by senior Theresa Ingram and sophomores Rebecca Fink and Liz Downing. Downing is the sister of Harvard standout Sarah Downing.

Scott is the team's most consistent and hard working midfielder who is considered to be one of the nation's best one-on-one checkers. She scored 12 goals in 1993 and has been among the Terp's leaders in ground balls during her career. Ingram, a member of the U.S. Developmental Squad, led the team in assists and is expected to be a major influence in the midfield. Fink and sophomore Randall Goldsborough are expected to be offensive impact players after gaining valuable playing time last season. Chelius and Fine, both newcomers to the Terp lineup, were considered two of the top high school players in the nation last year.

Maryland's defense, annually one of the best in the nation, is led by a returning All-American in Parichy and stocked with veterans who will frustrate opponent attackers all season long.

Parichy is widely considered to be among the best defenders in the country. Her performance in the 1992 national semifinals as she held the nation's leading scorer without a shot will be remembered as one of the greatest defensive gems in the history of the game. Seniors Jen Budka, Amy Zink and Cailin Mullins will team with freshman Ginette Chelius to form a stingy wall of defenders.

The last line of defense will be anchored by junior Jamie Brodsky will be the Terp's goalkeeper this season. Brodsky has a large pair of shoes to fill as she replaces former Terp All-American Mandy Stevenson. Stevenson was named the NCAA Division I Goalkeeper of the Year at the conclusion of the 1993 season. Brodsky appeared in four games as a freshman and redshirted last season. She had 13 saves and a .813 save percentage as a freshman. Sophomore Kirsten Kruhm will serve as Brodsky's understudy. Kruhm played in four games last season while earning a .500 save percentage.

Maureen Scott

"These are the finest players you can possibly have," Timchal beams about her Terps. "When they are playing at the top of their games, they are exceptional players. Every day they are getting better."

Timchal hopes for the team to continue to improve all the way up to the National Championship, which will once again be held in Maryland's Byrd Stadium.

1992 NCAA Champions

Byrd Stadium — Hosting the 1994 NCAA Women's Lacrosse Championship — Again

The nation's best women's lacrosse teams will compete at the University of Maryland at College Park's Byrd Stadium on May 21 & 22 for the 1994 NCAA National Collegiate and Division III Lacrosse Championships. It marks the second consecutive year that the women's lacrosse champions will be crowned at the University of Maryland.

1994 will mark the third time that the championship will be held at Maryland since 1987. The women's championship marks the beginning of the most exciting two weeks in lacrosse this season. The Terps are also playing host to the 1994 NCAA Men's Lacrosse Championship in Byrd Stadium (May 29-31).

The success of past NCAA lacrosse tournaments at Maryland was a large factor in seeing both the men's and women's championship return to College Park for a second consecutive year. The last two times that Maryland has played host to the NCAA men's championship numerous attendance records have been broken and re-broken. In 1989, tournament records for overall attendance (44,156) and championship game attendance (23,893) were set. Both records still stand. In 1993, the all-time attendance record for the semifinal game (21,529) was set and the second largest overall attendance mark was set (41,646).

The attendance at the women's tournament last season was among the highest in the history of the tournament.

Byrd Stadium was opened in 1950 and was one of the premier football venues of the day. Better than 40-years later, Byrd Stadium has recently undergone a comprehensive facelift so that again it is among the finest on-campus facilities in the nation. A five-story brick press box and hospitality will house media and honored guests at this years NCAA Tournaments. A $6 million team center, with state-of-the art locker rooms and medical training facilities, in the east end zone will house this years' final four teams.

New aluminum seating throughout the bowl will enhance the enjoyment of lacrosse spectators, which are once again expected to come to Byrd Stadium in record numbers for both championships.

More women's lacrosse will be played in Byrd Stadium this year than ever before. The University of Maryland women's lacrosse team will play no less than four games under the lights at Byrd this season in an effort to accommodate the increasing fan support that women's lacrosse is generating in this area. Included in the Byrd Stadium schedule is an exhibition match between the Terps and the U.S. National Team on April 2.

Cindy Timchal

Head Coach

In three years as the head women's lacrosse coach at the University of Maryland, Cindy Timchal has compiled an overall record of 40-6 (.870) and during that time led the Terps to the 1992 National Championship. With Timchal as its head coach, Maryland has played in three NCAA Final Fours, advancing to the national championship game twice. Maryland has been ranked first in the nation during each of her first three years in College Park and begins this season picked as one of the teams who will challenge for the 1994 national championship.

During her tenure at Maryland, Timchal has sustained the incredible success of the Terps' program and worked tirelessly to take the program to even greater heights.

Timchal guided Maryland to the 1992 National Championship and led the Terps to the NCAA Final Four in 1991, 1992 and 1993. In her three seasons at Maryland, she has led the Terps to four wins in six national tournament games and numerous victories over nationally ranked teams.

Timchal's short but remarkable coaching tenure at Maryland can be characterized as nothing short of spectacular. She came to Maryland following nine-highly successful years at Northwestern just before the beginning of the 1991 season. Despite taking over the Terps only weeks before the season opener, Timchal led Maryland to a 14-2 overall record and into the national championship game .

In 1992, Timchal directed the Maryland to the third national championship in the history of the program. The national championship wasn't easy as the Terps had to defeat 1991 national champion Virginia in the semifinals then turn back Harvard, the 1990 NCAA Champions, in the finals.

Timchal has accomplished nothing less than was expected of her when she took over for Dr. Suzanne Tyler, who became Maryland's Associate Director of Athletics in February, 1991. At Northwestern, Timchal's overall record was 76-40 and five times she took the Wildcats to the national tournament.

Timchal lobbied relentlessly to have Maryland named as the site for the 1993 and 1994 NCAA Championship Tournaments. Because of her dedication to the sport of lacrosse, the Division I and III National Champions will be crowned in College Park for the second consecutive season upcoming in May.

A native of Pennsylvania, Timchal attended West Chester University, where she lettered in lacrosse, field hockey, basketball and track and field. Following her graduation in 1976, she became a high school assistant coach at Unionville (Pa.) High School, where she coached lacrosse, field hockey and basketball.

In 1979, she joined the collegiate ranks, as she became an assistant lacrosse and field hockey coach at the University of Pennsylvania. Following three immensely successful seasons at Penn, she became the head lacrosse coach at Northwestern.

Timchal is a member of the Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Association and is an active and dedicated clinician and ambassador of the sport. She oversees numerous summer camp programs up and down the East Coast and in the Midwest.

The McCormick Award is given to the Baltimore area senior who has contributed the most to athletics. She was an alternate to the 1993 U.S. World Cup team that won the World Championship in Perth, Australia and toured England with the U.S. Under-23 squad in 1991. THE UNIVERSITY AT COLLEGE PARK

These are great days at the University of Maryland at College Park. The university, through an act of the state legislature, has been designated officially as the state's flagship campus with a mandate to become one of the nation's leading public universities. The effect of the mandate is for individuals from all corners of the university to aspire toward excellence, to think great thoughts and to become immersed in an educational enterprise of the highest caliber. There is an unmistakable momentum for change and a sense of heightened expectation at College Park- Maryland is choosing quality.

The faculty have enthusiastically endorsed a new general education program that began in the fall of 1990. It is a blueprint for comprehensive changes in the undergraduate experience at Maryland. The campus is reducing its undergraduate enrollment, improving the ratio between faculty and students, raising admissions standards, revamping the University Honors Program, strengthening the advising system, supporting expanded undergraduate research, and encouraging innovations in teaching.

Dr. William E. Kirwan, President

A new language house has opened where student residents have direct satellite access to foreign language television broadcasts from the USSR, Latin America, Italy and Japan, and where, in a total immersion setting, they have pledged to speak their chosen language at all times. A new honors house, a stimulating living and learning center for undergraduates taking part in the University Honors Program, opened in 1992. An international house, a living-learning environment that will meet the growing needs of the diverse international population on campus, is in the works.

Choosing by the numbers

3 miles are all that separate a College Park student from Washington, D.C. The Washington monument is less than 10 miles away.

24 flavors of our own homemade ice cream, from our own home-grown cows, are available at the Campus Dairy in the Turner Building on Route 1 next to the Visitor Center.

25 locations on campus provide 446 PCs, plus CAD terminals and other computer-driven tools for study or research.

35 miles separate the College Park student from Baltimore and the Inner Harbor, one of the great river fronts in the world.

78 RPM (rubs per minute) is the record high for one of College Park's oldest traditions. It happens during exams, and before football games, when hopeful students give Testudo and his Byrd Stadium twin rubs for good luck.

117 undergraduate majors are available at College Park.

186 stately columns grace the Georgian architecture of our major buildings, among them 35 residence halls providing rooms, suites, or apartments for 8,000 campus residents.

325 classrooms and laboratories set the stage for learning; courses in 110 different major fields of study offer choices and specialization's for every interest.

586 student-athletes participate at the NCAA level at College Park.

$591 million was the University's operating budget in 1992-93; included was financial aid for some 21,639 students.

1589 acres of trees, malls, and quiet corners make this campus a beautiful retreat and a self-contained city. With 300 buildings, four theaters, nine restaurants, banks, shops and recreation facilities, the College Park campus is a lively and cosmopolitan community.

8,521 graduate students attended Maryland in 1992-1993.

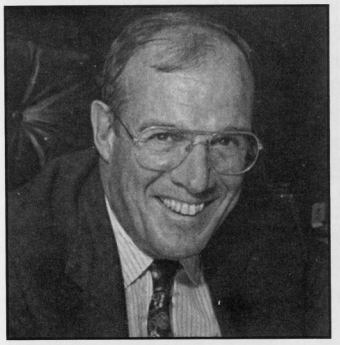
21,799 undergraduates attended Maryland in 1992-93. Undergraduate enrollment was reduced 20% over the past five years to allow College Park to fill its role as the flagship University of the State of Maryland.

3,000,000 books, journals and magazines support students and research in College Park's library system.

4,600,000 items are on microfilm format in the campus libraries.

Our location adds to the excitement on campus, too. Few regions in the nation have the intellectual, cultural and physical resources to compare with those in the Baltimore-Washington, DC. corridor. College Park's location astride that corridor means that Maryland undergraduates may tap these resources to their fullest - through internships, research projects, cooperative work-study and other programs offering hands-on experience.

We invite you to take a closer look at the University of Maryland, its extensive academic programs, faculty, research facilities, student activities and support services and the resources and opportunities it offers. See for yourself the number of different ways in which Maryland is choosing quality. There has never been a better time to choose Maryland.



Andy Geiger

Athletic Director

Andy Geiger, whose tenure as Athletic Director at Stanford University elevated him to the top rank of athletic administrators, was named to direct the athletic program at Maryland at College Park by President William E. Kirwan on Sept. 7, 1990.

Since Geiger's first day on the job, he has elevated the image of Maryland athletics, while providing structure and planning for the 1990's and beyond.

Of immediate impact was his being instrumental in establishing across the board equilibrium in the 23-sport program in the face of financial challenges.

While Geiger has been at Maryland, athletics have flourished. The women's lacrosse team won the 1992 NCAA Championship, the field hockey team won the 1993 NCAA Championship and the women's basketball team reached No. 1 in the country for the first time ever. In 1992-93, Geiger oversaw the hiring of Mark Duffner as football coach, the completion of a new athletic training facility at Byrd Stadium, renovation of lockerroom facilities for several varsity sports and the resurgence of the men's basketball program to the point where every ACC game this season was sold out.

Above all, Geiger is establishing management procedures to handle the complexities of a large, Division I athletic program. Procedures that are needed in a time of unparalleled scrutiny of college athletics.

Maryland is Geiger's fourth athletic dictatorship. He was AD at Brown in 1972, and moved to another Ivy League school, Pennsylvania, in 1975, overseeing at Penn the last Ivy program to reach the NCAA Basketball Final Four. At Stanford, Geiger oversaw an athletic juggernaut - amassing 27 NCAA titles in his 11 years at the helm.

Geiger is a 1961 graduate of Syracuse. He and his wife, Eleanor, have two children, Phillip and Gregory.

Dr. Sue Tyler

Senior Associate Athletic Director

Dr. Suzanne Tyler is at the heart of Maryland athletics. Her 20-year association with the program has seen her serve the department in every fashion imaginable. From coach to administrator to confidant of student-athletes, Tyler envelopes herself in red and white.

When Maryland needed an interim athletic director in 1990 to direct the 23-sport intercollegiate program, Tyler answered the call. She served in that capacity until the arrival of Andy Geiger.

Tyler's success has been extraordinary on both the athletic and academic levels. She is one of few coaches in history to win NCAA Championships in two sports — lacrosse in 1981 and 1986, and field hockey in 1987. Tyler performed double duty in 1990. While serving as the chief athletic department administrator, she led the Terps' women's lacrosse team to the national championship game. She was named National Coach of the Year in 1984 and 1986.

Her career reaches into the academic realm where she is as successful off the field as on. She has earned honors in each stage of her academic career — as an undergraduate at Northeastern in 1969, receiving her master's from Penn State in 1972 and her Ph.D. from Maryland in 1986.

Tyler and her husband, Dennis Casey, reside in Beltsville, Md. with their three-year-old son, Andrew and one-year old daughter, Alexis.

Academic Support Unit

The commitment to academic achievement is at the forefront of the athletic department's responsibility to every student-athlete. Striving for excellence is not just something that University of Maryland student-athletes do on the field.

Toward the goal of a successful academic experience for each student-athlete, the athletic department created the Academic Support Unit

Academic Support offers a comprehensive program for personal and academic development that includes:

* Personal academic assessment.
* Academic advising and counseling.
* Supervised study.
* Learning and study skill programs.
* Group and individual tutoring.
* Computer training and usage.
* Career mentoring.
* Summer internships.

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston is the Director of Athletic Student Services. She is assisted in the ASU by Elizabeth Freidman and Don Pearman. Friedman works directly with the Terp women's lacrosse team as its academic coordinator.

In addition to individual academic counseling, each member of the ASU serves the department in other capacities. The staff operates the ever-expanding computer room, where student-athletes gain hands on experience with various hardware and software systems. The ASU also operates an extensive bookroom where student-athletes have at their disposal the majority of the text books they will need during their undergraduate years.

More than 100 tutors in all academic disciplines are organized by the ASU. Student-athletes can receive specialized one on one training in any class they desire.

The Academic Support Unit at the University of Maryland has a tremendously positive and important impact on each of the student-athletes who join the Terrapins' program.

Strength and Conditioning

While the competitive lacrosse season is limited to only four months out of each year, the Terps work year round with the department's strength and conditioning staff, applying the latest strength training innovations toward becoming the best conditioned athletes possible.

The Terps have three fully equipped weight rooms in which to work, each containing the latest in weight training equipment. The newest equipment is housed in a state-of-the-art weight room which neighbors the lacrosse team's new locker room facilities.

The Terps' newest facility is completely outfitted with the best weight equipment that insures the lacrosse team will be physically prepared each time it takes to the field.

With state-of-the-art equipment at their disposal, Maryland's lacrosse team is aided in their strength work by two of the most innovative conditioning coaches in the country. Dwight Galt works with the team in their strength and conditioning training.

Galt is in his first year as the head strength and conditioning coach at Maryland. In addition to his overall athletic department duties, Galt works directly with the lacrosse team.

Galt developed a special program for the lacrosse players to increase their leg and back strength following his introduction to the sport last season.

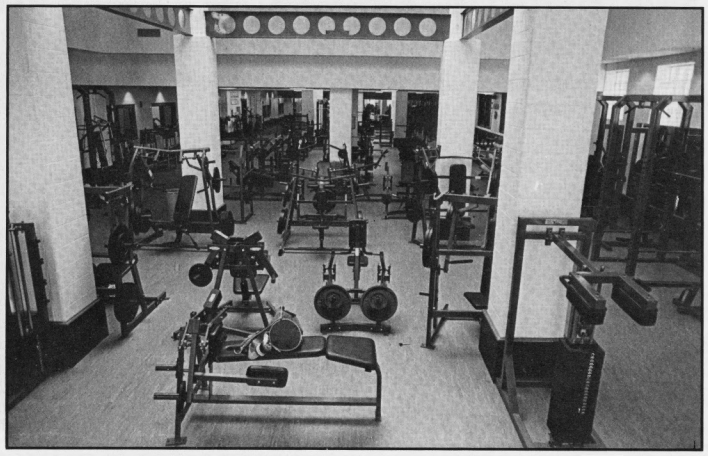
Galt has been a member of the Maryland strength and conditioning staff for several years and works primarily with the football team.

Galt was an assistant strength coach at Maryland in 1984 and 1985 and rejoined the staff prior to the 1989 football season. During his career, he has worked extensively with the Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League and was the director of Frank Costello's Elite Training Center for several years.

A graduate of Maryland, Galt received his Bachelor of Science degree in business and management in 1983. He earned his Master's of Science in exercise physiology from Maryland in 1989.

Galt, 36, and his wife Mary Janice have four children.



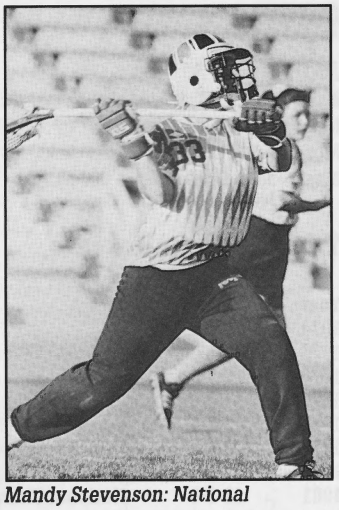
Now in its third decade of competition, the Maryland women's lacrosse program has earned its place among the premier programs in the nation. In gaining that recognition, the program continues to be one of the most successful programs in school history and annually one of the most successful in women's lacrosse.

Maryland played in the National Tournament for the 14th time in 1993 placing it among the nation's leaders in that category. The Terps won their third National Championship in 1992 - the most ever by a Maryland team. Maryland has reached the national tournament finals an unprecedented 10 times, including three of the past four seasons.

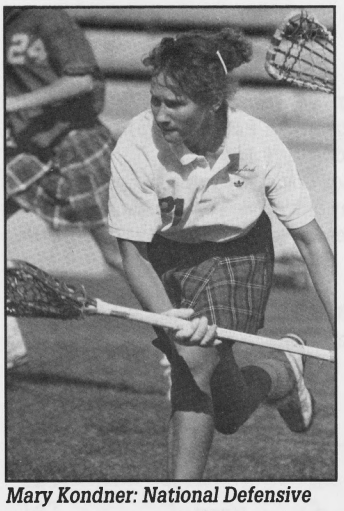
In terms of individual recognition, Maryland student-athletes stand as the most decorated in the history of the game. The Terps have had at least one player named All-American each year since 1980. In the last three years, Maryland has had 14 players so honored - the most of any program in the country. In 1990, Maryland had both the National Offensive and National Defensive Players of the Year - Mary Ann Oelgoetz on offense and Mary Kondner on defense. In 1991 Michele Uhlfelder became the second Terp named National Offensive Player of the Year. Following the 1993 season, Mandy Stevenson was named the National Goalkeeper of the Year and Kerstin Manning was named the National Defensive Player of the Year.

Lacrosse success follows Maryland players into the international realm of women's lacrosse, one of the nation's fastest growing sports. Several former Terps participated on both the 1989 and 1993 gold medal winning World Cup Teams.

The future has never been brighter for Maryland women's lacrosse.

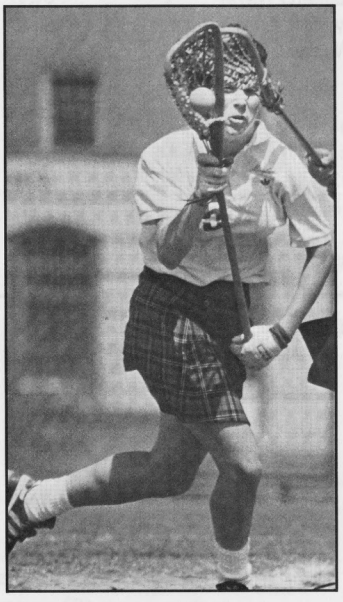


Mandy Stevenson: National Goalkeeper of the Year, 1993.



Mary Kondner: National Defensive Player of the Year, 1990.

Michele Uhlfelder: National Offensive Player of the Year, 1991.



Mary Ann Oelgoetz: National Offensive Player of the Year, 1990.
